

HYMN NOTES: "There's a Wideness in God's Mercy" (110)

The hymn's author, Frederick W. Faber (1814-1863), was of Huguenot ancestry and strict training in Calvinism. He moved from the priesthood in the Anglican Church to the Roman Catholic Church in 1846. He wrote 150 hymns, corresponding to the number of psalms. Originally in 13 stanzas, this hymn was called "Come to Jesus" and began, "Souls of men, why will ye scatter like a crowd of frightened sheep?"

Faber demonstrated a great affinity with 18th century evangelical writers such as Charles Wesley. The simplistic final line in our The Hymnal, 1955 which reads "and our lives would be all sunshine in the sweetness of our Lord" was completely changed for The Presbyterian Hymnal, 1990 to "and our lives reflect thanksgiving for the goodness of our Lord." In other hymnals a better change that retains the original meaning is "and our lives would be illumined by the presence of our Lord."
