Thanksgiving, Advent and Martin Luther

Knowing God, loving God, trusting God. These are key focal points as we journey toward Thanksgiving and Christmas with truly thankful and joyful hearts. Martin Luther, the great reformer from the 16th century who struggled mightily to know and love God, can provide us with encouragement and inspiration for our upcoming journey through this holiday season.

Luther, at age 21, found himself in a thunderstorm and was thrown from his horse by the force of a lightning strike. He cried out in panic and terror, "Saint Ann, help me, I will become a monk." Out of this life-threatening experience and the seriousness with which he took his vow to become a monk, Luther's spiritual journey became focused on getting close to God. Yet as hard as he worked to establish a loving, close relationship with God, the condition of Luther's soul was one of doubt, despair and desperation. He came to the point where he said flat out, "Love God? No, I hate Him." Thankfully, by God's grace, a turning point came in his life.

Luther began to teach the Bible in 1513, eight years after he had become a monk. We need to take special notice of that; for it was in discovering the Bible that he found the answers to his quest to draw near to the heart of God. Interestingly enough, Luther's first discovery came not in the New Testament but in the Old Testament. He was working through a course in the book of Psalms when the opening words of Psalm 22 first captured his attention, for these were the very words of Christ on the cross: "My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?" He was stunned. What could this possibly mean? Christ forsaken? Luther felt himself forsaken because he was a sinner before a righteous God. But Christ is the pure One, the sinless One. How is it that He is forsaken by His heavenly Father? The answer came for him from the apostle Paul in the New Testament. The One who was without sin, for our sakes became sin. Indeed, Paul proclaims the inconceivable—Christ became God's curse. What Paul is driving home from Christ's crucifixion is God's holy reaction to sin. For Luther, the cry of abandonment of Christ was real. If anything was real in this world that was it. This had life-changing implications for brother Martin. Luther put it this way: "This hidden God becomes, at the cross, the revealed God."

This was the act of love and grace for which Luther had so longed. What was so freeing for him was that salvation, from start to finish, is an act of God. Forgiveness is not anything we achieve. Forgiveness is a miracle. A person cannot purchase it by doing good things. We cannot earn it by any act of spirituality or religious activity. We cannot claim it as anything that is our due. It is grace, God's pure undeserved favor. It is where God, in Jesus Christ, declares

Vision Task Force Update

The Vision Task Force completed its work in 2012 in seeking God's vision for Northwood Presbyterian Church over the next 20 years. Since that time the Stewardship, Finance and Property Committee (SFP) has been working on how to best implement that plan with other ministry teams and committees of the Session. (All Ministry Teams and Committees of NPC were charged in 2012 with working to implement the goals established by the Vision Task Force). The SFP has been trying to prioritize those plans and find the resources necessary to make the plan go forward from a budget perspective in matters relating to the vision of updating our church campus.

We are pleased to announce that more steps are in the process of being implemented. Along with the updating of the new sanctuary light and sound system the next stage was to expand the classroom capacity for the Church Day School. Two new classrooms will be available for enrollment in the Fall of 2014. This project will be completed with minimal expense. Due to scheduling difficulties these new facilities cannot be used until that time. Through the leadership of church staff member Katie Pacana, our Director of Communications, the church website has been updated this summer as well. The vision of the Task Force was to continue to upgrade the technology of our ministry together as other leading churches are doing and we continue to do this as appropriate for us as a congregation.

Another important step in implementing the vision for NPC for the future will be a complete upgrade of the men's and women's restrooms which are shared with the Day School in our main building. This renovation of the main restrooms is targeted for completion in the Summer of 2014.

As the SFP committee continues to plan for the future, it is mindful of the financial costs involved in expanding. Of equal importance, the committee must be assured that what ever is done must lead smoothly to the next step. If you have questions or concerns please direct them to either Mike O'Leary, Chair of the SFP Team or to me.

Christian Education

Joan Baker, Christian Education Team Chair

His verdict upon the sin of the world and in the same moment he declares His unspeakable love for the sinner. And if this is true, there is really only one acceptable way for human beings to respond. Luther called it faith. And what was all-important for him was "faith," which meant simply a fiduciary trust. We simply need to trust that what is declared in the gospel is the truth of the human situation before God. Trust God and His Word.

For Martin Luther, this trust was a moment of wondrous transformation. All along he had been trying to earn God's love and win God's favor, while the truth was that God Himself had given His love and favor in the life, death and resurrection of Christ. Now the Christian life for Luther was not about searching for God. The Christian life was embracing the Good News that God had come searching for us, and He had found us.

The following words from the Advent hymn "Come, Thou Long-Expected Jesus" expresses well what I have sought to share, "Come, thou long-expected Jesus, born to set thy people free; from our fears and sins release us; let us find our rest in thee."

It is my prayer that as we journey to Thanksgiving and celebrate the birth of the Christ Child that we, like Martin Luther, will grow more and more in faith, hope and love.

In Christ's love,
Pastor Paul
